Academic Search Premier (EBSCO)

Academic Search Premier provides full-text for nearly 4,700 publications covering a broad range of academic areas. Coverage varies by publication, but generally covers the early-to-mid 1990s to the present.

Academic Search Premier can be searched by selecting it from the list of reference databases at <http://ucl.broward.edu>. From this page, go to the Magazines/Journals pull-down menu:

- Choose Indexes and Databases by Title
- Select Academic Search Premier by clicking on the “Library Card” link.
- Enter your 14-digit library card number and the screen will display your choices; from the left-hand column, select Academic Search Premier.
- Enter your PIN (the last 4 digits of your Social Security number).

After accessing the database, you can do a basic search by entering keywords into the Find box and clicking on the Search button.

Select any Limiters that you want to apply to the search. For example:

- Full Text limits the search results to full-text articles.
- Peer Reviewed finds articles that come from scholarly journals, not magazines
- Published Date limits the time period for the search
- Publication limits search to one specific journal/magazine title

- Publication Type gives you a drop-down list of options to limit search results to a specific type of publication
- Number of Pages can be less than two, greater than ten, less than twenty, etc.
- Article with Images limits to PDF or text with graphic
- Results List displays a list of citations that match your search terms

Expanders allow you to search for related words (synonyms and plurals), search within the text as well the citation, and add search terms together.
